Dear Parents and Educators,

As a former adult literacy coach and the father of three children, I know that learning to read isn't always easy. That's why I developed Sounds Like Reading™—a series that uses a combination of devices to help children learn to read.

This book is the eighth in the Sounds Like Reading™ series. It uses rhyme, repetition, illustration, and phonics to introduce young readers to diphthongs—vowel sound combinations in which the sound of one letter glides into the other, as in toy—and r-controlled vowels—vowels in which the sound changes because of the presence of the r, such as the a in star.

Starting on page 4, you'll see three rhyming words on each left-hand page. These words are part of the sentence on the facing page. They all feature a diphthong or an r-controlled vowel. As the book progresses, the sentences become more challenging. These sentences contain a “discovery” word—an extra rhyming word in addition to those that appear on the left. Toward the end of the book, the sentences contain two discovery words. And for an extra challenge, the final sentence in this book contains three! Children will delight in the increased confidence that finding and decoding the discovery words will bring. They'll also enjoy looking for the mouse that appears throughout the book. The mouse asks readers to look for words that sound alike.

The bridge to literacy is one of the most important we will ever cross. It is my hope that the Sounds Like Reading™ series will help young readers to hop, gallop, and skip from one side to the other!

Sincerely,

Brian P. Cleary
